RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

What's being called "dirty coal" is actually lignite in most cases. Those in the know 'jokingly' call it one step above dirt. It is very difficult & inefficient to process & use for power. Get behind the wind farm off the coast of Massachusetts & don't squander any more taxpayer-owned resources. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground.

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

We must end the federal coal leasing program and keep publicly owned coal in the ground. There is more at stake than simply climate change. Burning coal pollutes the air and water with arsenic, mercury, and other heavy metals. Mining coal tears up the land, destroying forests and prairies, and the ground water under them. Wind and Solar Energy, along with hydrogen storage and lithium batteries, can provide for all of our energy needs much more cleanly.

RE: (RIN) 1012-AA13, Consolidated Federal Oil and Gas and Federal and Indian Coal Valuation Reform

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is not only incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change, it is damaging our economy, our health, and our leadership in the world as an innovator.. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. The coal companies that have been mining this resource have been using our tax dollars ... and will continue to do so if we do not change our policy ... to grow their export of coal overseas and, in the process, using tax loopholes to avoid paying revenues to our government. Continuing this policy is bad for the country, for our citizens, for future generations, and for people everywhere who live with the burning of coal. We urge you to stop this program and, instead, keep this dirty, polluting and unneeded substance in the ground.

You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. If Burlington VT. now 100% and Germany 75% can provide power using clean energy alternatives then the rest of the US should not be a problem. The loss of jobs in the fossil fuel industry will be more than off set by the jobs created by clean energy alternatives. Stop buying into dirty fuels rhetoric and step into the 21st century. When you give public coal to companies, you're also giving them the ability to cause more pollution. This will mean less land for humans and animals. More toxic gases released from the machines they use. And that's much more than when than what an ordinary person does to support climate change, such as turning on the light.

You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. I realize other countries may depend on our coal to develop. That being the case they need to do take the similar initiatives to what the US has done with oil to make it cleaner and more efficient to utilize i.e. catalytic converters, higher fuel standards etc. If we charge more for coal they will be forced to do so. The US can develop the technology to make that possible for them and provide jobs for both.

Those profiting from this are those in the government that have direct access to controlling and approving these transactions. I for one did not ever approve nor would I approve of the RAPE of this Nation's natural resources by and dam foreign company! That is an issue worth shooting over if they set foot on this Nation's soil. As for the politicians that allowed it, they are heading for a definite termination of their career! You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. Okay, yes I agree with that...but you want money...you need money...everyone is demanding you find money somewhere...so there simply is no reason not to earn an absolute mint of money; if you are going to charge for something that should be a public resource, then by god charge a fortune! Enough to pay for all the environmental damage & health problems. Then again, you could get the money simply by making a true & public commitment to the PUBLIC, thus increasing their support. Green tourism, for example; how many people would be interested in touring green energy, like wind & solar, converted mines, & green cabins?! One of the reasons we rarely travel anymore is not wanting to stay in toxic environments & not having a green RV option (or the time to make one). For the record, as a previous university Extension Agent, with a Masters degree...and WELL AWARE of US subsidies...I'm against them wholeheartedly. And the main reason is that they always seem to be a detriment to public good...and about corporate greed. Sure the milk subsidies used to help family farmers, not only do they fund corporate agriculture to the point of putting family farms out of business, they keep farmers from making appropriate & timely changes (business as usual) & they weren't about making sure a healthy product was accessible to all people, because homo-past milk isn't the healthy milk we drank RAW a century ago! Do what's best for the American people.

Giving publicly owned coal to private companies is incompatible with President Obama's stated commitment to stop runaway climate change. You must end the federal coal leasing program and do everything in your power to keep publicly owned coal in the ground. Coal after the industrial revolution has failed to provide jobs to sustain our communities. Mostly what we get from this corrupt practice of "giving away coal" is pollution in our day and age. And the pollution is causing climate change. The traditional exchange of jobs and taxes in exchange for the right to pollute is no longer in the interest of the United States or the World. End this outdated practice, you are only rewarding greed driven corporations at the expense of American citizens and the citizens of the World. CLIMATE CHANGE IS A GLOBAL EMERGENCY ACT NOW.
