General Comment

Please cut subsidies and close loopholes in the Department of the Interior's coal sales to companies mining on federal land. The money should go to taxpayers, not coal companies, and we should be discouraging the use of coal anyway as it contributes more to climate change than other forms of energy, even other fossil fuel energy, unless the carbon dioxide is sequestered. Coal also contributes more to air pollution. It is not in the interest of the people to subsidize coal mining companies.
