General Comment

I am opposed to the proposed rule change on coal valuation. The rule will create significant uncertainty and provides the Secretary of the Interior too much discretionary power. It will limit the export opportunities and disadvantage small industrial customers in the US.

The rule will discourage energy development on Federal lands. The rule, as proposed, requires much greater understanding thus I am encouraging the ONRR to further study and review the proposed rule before acting on this proposal.

This appears to be another effort by this administration to reduce the use of coal both domestically and abroad.
