General Comment

I find it odd. Someday possibly in the not too distant future people will look back on America and say. They had it all, they had manufacturing, they had the steel industry, a striving economy, they had oil/gas and coal they had everything a country could want. But they threw it all away because of over stepping government regulations and taxation "without representation".

America has opportunities to ship coal to countries that have to burn manure for heat and cooking. But no... our government knows better.

We get so tired of hearing "my constituents" and the American people, which over my adult life have proven to be false statements.

I do not understand why a government for a free society keeps pushing their thumb down harder just because most people just want to make a living and have enjoy the fruits of their labor.

If a rich man does not make money there are millions of Americans that will not make money...

Please take a minute and make sure you all pat each other on the back for what you have done and are trying to do to your "constituents" and the "American people".
